Office of the President

Dear Campus Community,

As president of Cal Poly, I am often asked to respond to national and world events like the loss of life in the Middle East due to the horrific attack on Israel and resultant war in Gaza.

Our practice at Cal Poly is not to comment on current national and world events that do not directly impact a critical mass of our students and employees. Rather we focus our efforts on providing care and support to those in our community who are most affected.

Our silence regarding these events should not be taken as a position that we don't care, but that we reserve our public responses for those things that we can control or influence.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey D. Armstrong
President
